Do you know the Seven Standards of Excellence at LCCC? Every week, check out College Voice to learn a new Standard and stay In the Know!

Standard V: Educational Effectiveness Assessment

Overview: Requires systematic and continuous evaluation of student learning outcomes at both institutional and program levels. Assessment data must be consistently analyzed and leveraged to drive continuous improvement in curriculum, pedagogy, and educational quality.

Unauthorized Items

We've recently encountered information about orders for kitchen supplies (paper plates, plastic forks, and spoons) and office comfort items (air purifiers, etc.).

Please be reminded that these are not authorized for payment with college funds. They're considered personal items to be paid for directly by the employee. Any questions regarding these items should be directed to the Purchasing & Contract Manager, Joe Hardenberg.

Guest Speaker Dr. Khori Newlander presents "Bigfoot, Ancient Aliens, and Other Fantasies: Why Critical Thinking (Still) Matters"

Please join LCCC's Honors Scholars on Wednesday, October 7, in the Community Services Center rooms 203-205 from 2:20 p.m. to 3:40 p.m. for a presentation by Dr. Khori Newlander, Professor of Anthropological Archaeology at Kutztown University. This presentation is open to the entire campus.

Presentation Abstract: Did aliens visit the Earth in the past, bringing civilization to our "primitive" ancestors? Or do we owe civilization to survivors from the lost city of Atlantis? Does Bigfoot or the Loch Ness monster really exist? Did dinosaurs and people live at the same time? Questions dealing with the mysteries of the past and present have long been answered by offering fantastic explanations—explanations that invoke the occult, paranormal, mystical, and miraculous. For their part, professional scientists typically regard such fantastic explanations as pseudoscience ("fake science"). Yet pseudoscience has enjoyed renewed interest from an increasingly science-averse audience. Dr. Newlander will explore some examples from cryptozoology and pseudoarchaeology to sharpen our critical thinking skills and see how scientists come to evidence-based understandings of the world.

Dr. Khori Newlander earned a B.A. in Archaeology from Hamilton College, Clinton, NY, and an M.A. and Ph.D. in Anthropology from the University of Michigan, Ann Abor, MI. Trained as a North Americanist, Dr. Newlander's earlier research focused on Paleoindian sites in eastern Nevada. At Kutztown University, Dr. Newlander and his students are presently engaged in archaeological research on historic and precontact sites in eastern Pennsylvania. In his spare time, Dr. Newlander keeps his eyes peeled for Bigfoot.

LASSI Scores Predict Student Performance

Our Fall 2025 LASSI (Learning and Study Strategies Inventory) data show that student scores were significantly related to end-of-spring GPA. More than just measuring skills, it's possible that completing the LASSI and its follow-up activities may serve as an effective intervention to boost course performance overall.

In a fall sample of 256 students across 20 course sections, 8 out of 10 LASSI categories were uniquely statistically significantly when correlated with GPA:

- Attitude
- Concentration
- Information Processing
- Motivation
- Selecting Main Ideas
- Test-Taking Strategies
- Time Management
- Use of Academic Resources

When analyzing all categories combined, Motivation and Test-Taking Strategies emerged as the strongest predictors of term GPA–making them prime targets for future interventions.

Check back next week for more LASSI scores analysis. Questions or need specific data? Contact Michael Spinks and Katy DeLong at thelassi@lccc.edu.

Student Employee of the Month: Luca & Sydney September 2026

The Office of Career Development is thrilled to celebrate both Luca Carlino and Sydney Raguckas as our Student Employees of the Month! Together, this extraordinary pair forms what the Science Division affectionately calls our "Dream Team"—keeping our busy laboratories running smoothly, safely, and efficiently every single day.

Luca Carlino has been a Lab Tech in the Science Labs for nearly a year, and we are incredibly fortunate to have him! From preparing physical labs to classroom cleaning, restocking, and arranging supplies for chemistry, biology, physics, anatomy, microbiology, genetics, and ecology. In troubleshooting equipment and handling hazardous wastes, Luca takes every challenge in stride. Whether he's making thousands of sterile microbiology media, preparing precise solutions, maintaining safety protocols, or caring for our live organisms, his enthusiasm, upbeat attitude, and sharp attention to detail make him a true linchpin in our department.

Sydney Raguckas works side-by-side with Luca to complete this dynamic duo. Sydney brings the same dedication, reliability, and precision to the division, ensuring that complex lab setups are executed flawlessly and that faculty have everything they need for successful classes. Her strong work ethic, positive energy, and commitment to student success make her an indispensable part of our daily operations.

Working in the science labs can be demanding and unpredictable, but faculty and staff know they can rely on Sydney and Luca in any situation. Thank you, Sydney and Luca, for your hard work, care, and outstanding support!

Reporting an incident in StART

If you are aware of an incident that concerns you, such as student behavior issues, violations of the LCCC Code of Student Conduct or Academic Honesty policy, or emotional concerns, the college offers an online reporting tool called StART, which allows you to submit an official report. You can access this online form by clicking "StART" in the LCCC portal under Faculty/Staff Resources and then following the prompts. Associate Dean DeLong responds to all submitted reports.

In addition to filing this report, if the circumstances include a threat of violence or harm to a member of the college community, you should report that immediately to Public Safety by calling 610-799-1169. If you have questions regarding StART or would like to schedule a StART training, please email Associate Dean of Student Development Brian DeLong at bdelong2@lccc.edu.

LASSI Lessons: How Assessment Completion Predicted Student Success

We are starting this term's lessons by highlighting the ongoing impact of the Learning and Study Skills Inventory (LASSI) project. Recent analysis shows a strong, consistent connection between LASSI participation and higher student GPAs across multiple semesters:

* Spring 2025 (141 students): Students who completed the LASSI achieved a statistically significant higher average GPA (3.07) compared to those who did not (2.50).

* Fall 2025 (356 students): This positive pattern continued, with LASSI completers earning an average GPA of 3.20 versus 2.78 for non-completers.

While completing assignments naturally correlates with academic success, our data analysis also revealed that higher overall LASSI assessment scores directly align with higher GPAs.

Stay tuned next week, when we look deeper into how specific LASSI subscores correlated with student performance. In the meantime, if you have questions
